WSAC Eastern and Western District Fall Meetings

Deadlines for registration and room reservations are fast approaching! Meeting information and registration forms are attached to the back of this Courthouse Journal and are available on our website www.wacounties.org/wsac. The meeting agendas are nearly complete and will be posted on the WSAC website on Monday, August 20. Call Kim Zydek, WSAC staff, if you have any questions, (360) 753-1886 or kzydek@wacounties.org.

Congressional Forest Counties Payment Committee Meetings

The first meeting of the Forest Counties Payments Committee to be held outside of Washington, D.C. will take place in Oregon.

The Forest Counties Payments Committee was established by Congress as described in Section 320, of 2001 Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act. The Committee was established for the purpose of developing recommendations to Congress for making payments to State and counties in which Federal lands are located.

This is your opportunity to give input on the implementation of PL 106-393, (the counties and schools “safety-net legislation) and the importance of a long-term solution to the shared receipts from our Federal lands.

- Forest Counties Payments Committee Meeting, August 20, 2001, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Benson Hotel, 309 SW Broadway, Portland, Oregon

- Forest Counties Payments Committee Meeting, August 21, 2001, 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Red Lion Hotel, 304 SE Nye Avenue, Pendleton, Oregon

If you have questions don’t hesitate to contact Paul Parker at (360) 753-1886.

Deadlines Approach for Counties Receiving U.S. Forest Service Funds

Counties that will be receiving federal forest funds under HR 2389 must take action soon and notify WSAC whether the county intends to take the “full payment” amount authorized by HR 2389 or 25 percent of future revenue from harvest. Counties taking the “full payment” and receiving more than $100,000 also must indicate what percentage of funds (15 to 20 percent) will be invested in Title II or Title III projects.

WSAC is collecting the county decisions to forward to the Governor and the State Treasurer. The Governor must notify the Secretary of Agriculture by September 30 of the county choices. Only three counties have informed WSAC of their decisions to this date. For sample resolutions or other assistance please call Paul Parker at (360) 753-1886.
Nominations for 2001/2002 WACO Board of Trustees

WACO members will soon be receiving an e-mail that will give them the necessary information for running for a position on the WACO Board of Trustees. Any county official is eligible to run for WACO Secretary-Treasurer or Trustee for their county class. Tradition is that officers move up through the chairs so usually only the Secretary-Treasurer is contested among the officers. Travel expenses for WACO officers and Trustees are paid by WACO. This ensures that any county official can serve without placing undue burdens on county budgets. The following positions are subject to election this year:

- President; President-elect; Vice President;
- Secretary – Treasurer;
- Trustee-at-large position 1 (county population above 500,000)
- Trustee-at-large position 3 (county population 40,000 – 125,000)
- Trustee-at-large position 5 (county population less than 12,000)
- Trustee-at-large positions 1, 3 and 5 terms expire in 2003.

Pierce County Auditor Recipient of Award

The Pierce County Auditor’s Office is the recipient of an award acknowledging their commitment to customer service. The Texas based “Election Center” will give the award to County Auditor Cathy Pearsall-Stipek at a training workshop later this month in New Orleans. The award is being given for a publication entitled the “Pierce County Election Statistics Book.” The book is produced annually and contains voter turnout statistics and well as other information that is used to improve customer service.

Auditor Cathy Pearsall-Stipek was the recent recipient of a NACo Achievement Award for the “Voting is Cool” program as well as receiving the “Outstanding Voter Outreach Award for 2000” from the Washington Secretary of State’s Office. Congratulations to Cathy and her election’s staff.

Cathy Pearsall-Stipek Elected President of National Association of County Recorders, Election Officials and Clerks (NACRC)

Last month in Philadelphia, Pierce County Auditor Cathy Pearsall-Stipek was elected to a one year term as President of NACRC. NACRC is the National Association of County Official’s largest affiliate organization. The membership consists of over 1,000 elected and appointed officials. NACRC provides their members opportunities to exchange ideas and information on a national level and provides an opportunity to become a Certified Public Official to its members. Cathy will be hosting the NACRC Fall Board Meeting at Quinault Beach Resort, Ocean Shores, in September. Cathy has invited Washington state county auditors to attend the fall meeting.

Pierce County Deputy Auditor Pat McCarthy has recently completed the educational requirements and standards set forth by NACRC to become a certified public official in management, elections and records management. Congratulations, Pat.

Counties and Cities Working with Ecology on Stormwater Phase II Implementation

WSAC and the Association of Washington Cities are working with the Department of Ecology to develop strategies to ensure local participation in the development of stormwater management planning required by the federal Clean Water Act. Phase II of the NPDES (National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System) program requires eight counties and over eighty cities to develop and implement a stormwater program. The Phase II regulations take effect in March 2003.

The eight counties required to implement Phase II are Benton, Cowlitz,

NACo President Prioritizes Rural Counties and Gateway Communities

NACo President Javier Gonzales has begun a Rural County Governance Center as a part of his focus on rural and gateway counties. The Rural Governance Center is intended to increase the capacity of rural county elected officials to develop and sustain vibrant rural communities.

The Center's activities this year will focus on developing a virtual library containing model programs, information resources and funding information. It will sponsor applied research and publish research reports of vital interest. The Center will also conduct various conferences and workshops on critical issues during the year.

Gonzales – from Santa Fe County, New Mexico – also intends to focus on gateway communities that are adjacent to or near federal lands, especially National Parks, Monument and other areas heavily impacted by tourism. In his Presidential Initiative Concept Paper, Gonzales writes, “It is crucial that the communities and federal land management agencies work together to ensure that the national good is not achieved at the expense of the good of the community. Planning and a renewed sense of partnership are needed to ensure this balance.”

NACo soon will be conducting a survey of gateway communities to assess challenges and opportunities for collaboration with federal agencies and develop an issue paper this fall. Three regional forums on Gateway Communities are planned:

- October 2001 Tucson (at the Western Interstate Region Board Meeting)
- March 2002 Gatlinburg, TN/Asheville, North Carolina
- May 2002 Billings, MT (WIR Annual conference)

More details will be forthcoming from NACo and WSAC.

Federal Judge Finds McNeil Halfway House is Good First Step

U.S. District Court Judge William Dwyer has decided that for the time being, the halfway house being opened on McNeil Island is a good first step and the state will avoid paying $3 million in contempt fines. However, he noted that it is still not sufficient to fully meet the community-release standard and that once again, that was the most important piece of unfinished business. Because he feels that way, he did not eliminate the threat of possible fines down the road. Judge Dwyer feels that one or more additional sex offender halfway houses must be built/located off the island. Dwyer’s decision essentially echoes that of the opinion issued earlier this month by U.S. District Court Magistrate John Weinberg in the preliminary ruling issued in light of Dwyer’s temporary absence from the bench.

DHS Secretary Dennis Braddock indicated he was pleased with Judge Dwyer’s decision, but also noted the pressing need to locate additional facilities off island to address the judge’s continued concerns. It is expected that the McNeil Island 24-bed facility will be ready by October, and construction of a much larger $3.2 million facility is slated to be finished by the fall of 2002.

It is WSAC staff’s understanding that phone calls have been initiated to a number of counties to inform them of what their share of these clients will be eventually as indicated in SB 6151 as enacted last session. Counties will remember that the bill included the number of people in the Special Commitment Center from each county of origin as of last spring and would not exceed that number over the next several years as additional facilities are developed off the island. Unfortunately it does not appear that the Joint Select Committee that was going to deal with issues around equitable distribution has either been named or much less met as yet and their report was ostensibly due in November of this year. A county representative is to be named to that committee.

Pierce, King & Spokane County RSNs Sign 01-03 Mental Health Contract Reluctantly

On August 16, the final three out of the 14 Regional Support Networks (RSNs) very reluctantly signed the 01-03 biennial contract for the provision of public mental health services. The deadline was the 16th. Interestingly enough, the deadline of the 16th had been arbitrarily imposed by the threat of the federal Balanced Budget Amendments (BBA) going into effect later in the month. Concurrently with the delivery of the final signed contracts, came the word that the Bush Administration had again delayed the BBA and in fact was entirely rewriting the rules surrounding them. The new rules are supposed to be much less restrictive and are now anticipated to go into effect next year sometime after review and public comment this fall.

Pierce County issued a news release on behalf of the three largest RSNs indicating their serious reservations concerning the state proposal. Pierce County officials were strongly critical of the contract and the method utilized by DSHS to develop its terms and conditions which the state facetiously termed “negotiation”. However as voiced by Pierce County Executive, John Ladenburg, they and the other two counties felt that it would be highly detrimental to consumers to be faced with this kind of serious disruption in their lives if the state actually took over service delivery on September 1 as threatened. Especially since the state had no commitment from any other party to run the system.

“We will not jeopardize the health of our citizens because DSHS won’t listen to reason. That’s why we signed.”

The contracts include a 90-day clause that allows the counties to withdraw from being RSNs. “If negotiations go nowhere and we have to invoke the 90-day clause, we’ll at least have that amount of time to ensure a smooth transition for the citizens who depend on these vital services. They won’t be left out in the cold,” said Ladenburg.

King and Spokane counties shared Pierce’s contract opinion. King County Executive Ron Sims, the Spokane County Board of Commissioners and Pierce County RSN Administrator Fran Lewis expressed their concerns in letters to Governor Gary Locke, DSHS Secretary Dennis Braddock and Mental Health Division Director Karl R. Brimner.

Lewis wrote Brimner that she was “dismayed by your unwillingness to negotiate some of the more egregious terms of the proposed contract. I sincerely hope that the MHD does not have the mistaken impression that authoritarian edicts to the RSNs constitute leadership and effective management of the mental health system. Pierce County has tried to be partners and has always demonstrated willingness to compromise on issues in a respectful situation which recognizes equality, but MHD has adopted a ‘take it or leave it’ attitude toward this contract.”

The three counties serve in excess of 60% of the individuals receiving publicly funded mental health services in the state at a cost of nearly $200 million per year.

All of the other 11 RSNs (consisting of 36 counties) who signed their contracts earlier this month had concerns about both the content of the contract and/or the process under which it was developed. Nearly all of them sent letters of concern to DSHS and at least one made edits to the contract, which may still be rejected by the state. As an added note many of the 14 did not sign the separate contract for Dangerous Mentally Ill Offenders (DMIO) due to expressed concerns by their insurers about the liability involved. And most did not sign the amended general terms and conditions agreement as well. In regard to the DMIO contract, the state has indicated it will be seeking other providers in this area. The statute only allows for other providers to provide case management services. It does not allow for replacement of the RSNs on the offender selection committees nor ultimately allow for the removal of the RSNs from responsibility for these populations if they otherwise are eligible for medicaid services or are statutory priority populations for service. I anticipate further discussion will occur around this area.

It should be noted this has been an extremely stressful time for all parties concerned, which in the counties’ opinion should not and did not have to occur. It can only be hoped that future negotiations rediscover the meaning of the words “negotiation”, “partnership” and “compromise.” We continue to have many challenges before the system not the least of which is cleaning up the debris left over from this debilitating period of time. Our relationship with the state has been severely damaged and may or may not be recoverable.

Boards & Commissions

Wanted: County Commissioner to Serve on Advisory Committee on Indigent Defense in Dependency Cases

When the 2001 Legislature appropriated funds to continue two pilot projects to improve indigent defense in child dependency and termination cases it also authorized an Implementation Committee to review the pilot projects and look at phasing in the program statewide. This committee, chaired by Supreme Court Justice Bobbe Bridge, is now taking shape and includes a position for one county commissioner.

Although the pilot projects are underway only in Pierce County and the Benton-Franklin judicial district, the commissioner representative on the advisory panel may be from any county. Judges, lawyers and others currently participating in the Pierce and Benton-Franklin projects will be well-represented on the committee. Eight legislators also will serve on the committee.

The Implementation Committee will examine parents’ representation criteria, dependency and termination case management issues resulting from improved defense practices, methods for the efficient use of expert services, and means by which parents may effectively access court-ordered services. As part of the project, the Washington State Institute for Public Policy will research the impact of decreased court delays on the length and cost of foster care.

The WSAC board of directors will choose the commissioner representative. Interested commissioners should contact WSAC staff Sophia Byrd by August 20. This selection process is on a fast track, with the first committee meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. September 21 at the SeaTac Double Tree Hotel. Travel costs will be reimbursed by the state. The committee expects to meet at least once a month until early 2002, when it is scheduled to issue recommendations to the Legislature.
WSAC Seeking a Representative for the Transportation Permit Efficiency and Accountability Committee

The Environmental Streamline Permit Bill (SB 6188) was passed during the 2001 legislative year. The Transportation Permit Efficiency and Accountability Committee was established as part of this new law. The Committee is comprised of 9 voting and 8 non-voting members, made up of legislators, representatives of the departments of Ecology, Fish, and Wildlife, and Transportation, local governments, and other interest groups. WSAC’s representative will be part of the voting membership. The legislation expires March 31, 2003.

This Committee is to identify and integrate processes to streamline the permitting process for pilot transportation projects, transportation projects of statewide significance and programmatic projects. The Department of Transportation is granted authority to prepare permits, with permitting agencies retaining approval authority. Local permitting processes are addressed, and an optional interim permitting process is authorized. We are currently seeking an individual who would be willing to represent us on this Committee. The first meeting is scheduled for September 12, 2001, in Olympia. Please contact WSAC staff, Jackie White as soon as possible.

General Interest
With Congressional Action Likely, State Group on Sales Tax to Meet Again

The federal moratorium on taxing Internet sales expires in October. Congress is likely to re-enact the moratorium. NACO and other groups are working to include some provisions that will lead to eventual collection of sales tax on Internet and catalogue sales. Last week NACO sent out an action alert asking members to urge their Congressional delegations to sponsor measures (S. 512 and H.R. 1410) that would authorize state to collect sales taxes for these “remote” sales. NACO has taken an official position opposing extension of the moratorium unless states (and their local governments) are given the power to eventually collect taxes on remote sales. That is the basis of their opposition to the extension contained in H.R. 1552 that has been passed by a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

The National Governor’s Association (NGA) and National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) have each engaged in efforts to address business complaints that the variations in local sales tax bases and rates are too difficult for remote sellers to administer. The result is a series of highly technical tax policy proposals. The NGA sponsored effort maintains a website at: www.geocities.com/streamlined2000 For a less technical version of the story, the NGA website (www.nga.org) and the NCSL website (www.ncsl.org) offer constant updates on this issue.

These streamlining efforts may result in tax legislation in this state in the 2002 Session. The Legislation would adopt provisions of a national model. The states are trying to demonstrate that they are capable of resolving this issue without Congressional intervention. Congressional models of uniformity would be subject to lobbying by specific industries for tax exemptions. To some extent, this same lobbying has taken place in the two streamlining efforts.

The State Department of Revenue Advisory Group on Sales Tax Simplification will meet by teleconference on September 11. The group includes representatives from business and local government. It is intended to help shape Washington’s response to national efforts to streamline and improve state and local taxes. In some cases, the national definitions of taxable items will be different than Washington’s current definition. In this case, Washington will have to decide whether to tax or exempt the new nationally defined class of goods. The NACO Fact Sheet follows:

NACO Fact Sheet: Authorizing States to Collect Remote Sales Tax
Issue: The Supreme Court has ruled that remote sellers cannot be required to collect sales taxes from customers in other states because of the burden and complexity of sales taxes from state-to-state. The Court also stated that this is an issue involving the “Interstate Commerce Clause” and that Congress can address it.

Background: States, counties and cities are expected to lose over $20 billion in annual sales tax revenues by 2003, because remote sellers are not collecting sales and use taxes on Internet and mail order sales. It is estimated that state and local governments are losing $4 billion to $5 billion annually in sales taxes from out-of-state mail order sales. The amount of remote sales will increase rapidly as sales over the Internet continue to grow exponentially. Since sales taxes equal an average of 36 percent of state and local revenues, and much higher in some states, this loss of revenue will have a major impact on education and other state and local services.

The Internet Tax Freedom Act, passed in 1998, imposed a three-year moratorium on new Internet access taxes. The moratorium, which is in effect through October 21, 2001, only affects Internet access taxes and taxes that discriminate against Internet services. It does not affect remote sales conducted over the Internet. The House passed legislation in early 2000 that extended the moratorium for five additional years. The House bill would have eliminated existing Internet access taxes now imposed in 10 states. The legislation died in the last Congress.

Legislation has been introduced in the House and Senate in the 107th Congress that links a short extension of the current moratorium with provisions authorizing an interstate compact on sales taxes. If states jointly simplified the definitions and administration of their sales taxes, they could join the interstate compact and require remote sellers to collect sales and use taxes.

The National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) has approved model state enabling legislation that would authorize each state to work with other states in developing the new sys-

Children’s Environmental Health Legislation Online Database
The National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) has created a searchable online database of children’s environmental health legislation. Users can search for bills about indoor air quality, mercury, lead hazards, pesticides, asthma, and other environmental concerns affecting children’s health. The database is a cooperative effort between NCSL and the Environmental Protection Agency’s Office of Children’s Health Protection. It can be accessed at www.ncsl.org/programs/ESNR/cehdb.htm.

Wastewater Resources Listserv
In an effort to send out wastewater-related news more quickly, the National Small Flows Clearinghouse (NSFC) has established a listserv to announce NSFC publications, new products, and other information. It provides the latest information about sewage treatment options for homes and small community developments. To subscribe, send an e-mail to macjordomo@mail.nesc.wvu.edu. Brief on Reducing Racial and Ethnic Disparities
In May 2000, Grantmakers In Health convened a group of grantmakers along with officials from DHHS and other experts in research and practice for an issue dialogue on racial and ethnic disparities in health. An issue brief has recently been developed that brings together key points from the discussion. Entitled “Strategies for Reducing Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health”, the brief is available by visiting www.gih.org, click on “Publications” “Issues Dialogue Briefs,” and scroll down to the publication title.

World Health Organization Publication on Social Determinants of Health
Policy and action for health need to be geared towards addressing the social determinants of health in order to attack the causes of ill health before they can lead to problems. This is a challenging task for both decision-makers and public health actors and advocates. The scientific evidence on social determinants is strong but is discussed mainly by researchers. A booklet, entitled “Social Determinants of Health: The Solid Facts”, was published in 1998 as part of the World Health Organization’s Regional Office for Europe campaign. It is available at www.who.doc/document/ES95559.pdf, or call (518) 436-9686 to order ($5.00 will be charged for postage and handling for the first book; $1.00 additional for books two and up).

Guides to Underage Drinking Prevention
The National Association of Governors’ Highway Safety Representatives has published the “Community How-To Guides on Underage Drinking Prevention”. The new guides were developed in partnerships with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). The Community Guides were designed to assist communities not only with the underage drinking problem, but with any community-based advocacy effort by addressing coalition building, needs assessment/strategic planning, enforcement, prevention and education, public policy, media relations, and evaluation. For copies of the guides, fax a request to (202) 493-2062.

Interim Final Rule on State Children’s Health Insurance Program
The Department of Health and Human Services recently issued a regulation aimed at providing health coverage to more children in the United States. The rule gives states increased flexibility under the State Children’s Health Insurance Program (SCHIP) to provide coverage and enables states to use streamlined enrollment procedures. The regulation promotes greater state flexibility to encourage states to develop approaches that address the needs of children and families in their states. The changes also make it easier for states to use a common application form and enrollment process for their SCHIP and Medicaid programs – an approach that can be effective at expanding outreach to eligible families. The regulation will take effect on August 24. More information is available at www.hhs.gov/news/press/2001pres/20010622.html.

Rural Road Safety Campaign for Youth
Farm Safety 4 Just Kids (FS4JK) sponsors a program, entitled “Buckle Up or Eat Glass”, to address the issues of rural road safety for youth. Working with various youth groups and funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), FS4JK conducts a community-based rural roadway safety campaign targeting seventh through 10th graders. Each group organizes an education session, holds a seat belt checkup of pickup drivers and passengers, recognizes youth wearing their seat belts, and conducts a media campaign. Local law enforcement officers are encouraged to participate. All items needed to conduct...

Call for Entries for Ahwahnee Awards Program - Deadline: September 28

The Local Government Commission has announced a Call for Entries for the 2001-2002 Ahwahnee Awards Program, which will recognize exemplary projects that further an evolution toward more livable, pedestrian-oriented and transit-based communities. Named in honor of the “Ahwahnee Principles” which prescribe a diverse and balanced mix of housing, jobs, businesses and recreational activities, these awards recognize communities whose plans and projects are creating a better quality of life for their residents and for their region as a whole. The awards presentation will be held in conjunction with the “New Partners for Smart Growth: Building Safe, Healthy and Livable Communities” conference on January 24 – 26, 2002 in San Diego. For more information, call Bismark Obando at (916) 448-1198, Ext. 311, or visit www.lgc.org/center/awards.

Douglas County PUD will provide a short presentation during the banquet.

The Rocky Reach Visitor Center, located on the Chelan County side of the Rocky Reach Hydro Project, is a beautiful facility boasting panoramic views of the project. The powerhouse holds two interpretive historical museums: Museum of Electricity and Museum of the Columbia - and balconies provide views of the full length of the powerhouse, the spillway, fish ladder and Columbia River.
Adjacent to the visitor center and powerhouse are 30 acres of award-winning lawns and gardens.

This promises to be a great event! Don’t forget, guests are always welcome and extra meal tickets may be purchased with your registration.

Reception at the Lewis & Clark Interpretive Center
After a long day of pre-meeting meetings (the Board of Directors and the Legislative Steering Committee will meet Wednesday afternoon, October 10), Pacific County Commissioners welcome you to Long Beach with a reception at the Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center. Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center, perched on a 200-foot-high cliff, tells the story of Lewis and Clark and their journey from St. Louis to the Pacific Ocean.

Annual Crab Feed
The Annual Crab Feed will be held on Thursday evening at the Eagle’s Nest Resort in Ilwaco. Becky Fontana of Rebecca Inn Catering will be supplying all the fixings to go with the crab. Pacific County Commissioner Jon Kaino says she does “a really great job”, so we are all looking forward to this new twist in an old tradition!

Dinner is included with your paid registration, but you are encouraged to bring guests. Please see the registration form for more information on purchasing guest tickets.

2002 Spring Site Selection
COMMISSIONERS/COUNCILMEMBERS: If your county is interested in hosting the 2002 Spring District Meeting, you will need to provide a proposal that includes a hotel with, at minimum, 75 guest rooms, one meeting room large enough for 100 people, and another to hold 35 people. Please contact Kim Zydek if you have any questions, (360) 753-1886 or kzydek@wacounties.org.
